A Utility Pokemon Guide

By KaSlaps

Sorry this is a terribly formatted guide. Hopefully it has all the information regarding essential Pokemon for tasks throughout Gen 6 games you'll need.

The EV Trainer - TROPIUS

Attacks:

- 1) Sweet Scent
- 2) Fly
- 3) Fear Leaf
- 4) Earthquake

Tropius is able to do several things that other utility Pokemon could only wish to do. It can use Fly (which, in ORAS, allows you to land on any Route as well as town). Sweet Scent to attract hordes, and 2 moves that hit all five horse Pokemon at once.

This makes it an ideal Pokemon to EV train with, since it can easily get you to where you want, attract the hordes, then knock out 5 Pokemon at once. It gives you 5 free Party slots to EV train, and you don't need any other utility Pokemon with you.

The Catcher - BRELOOM (and Smeargle mention)

Ability: Technician

Attacks:

- 1) Spore
- 2) False Swipe

Spore isn't an easy move to come by, and Breloom can only get it before evolving. So once you've evolved your Shroomish, if your Breloom doesn't know Spore or you take it out, there's nothing you can do to get it back. Putting the opponent to sleep is more effective than paralyzing when it comes to increasing catch rate, so Spore is ideal for this, since it has 100% accuracy.

Breloom's Hidden Ability Technician multiplies the power of False Swipe by 1.5, making it 60 power instead of 40. Smeargle, while having a terrible Attack stat in comparison to Breloom, has access to both False Swipe and Spore, as well as Thunder Wave should you want to use that instead, and Technician is easier to get on it.

If you are unaware, False Swipe (or Hold Back on some other Pokemon), can only ever take the opponent to 1HP, and never faint them. This is (obviously) ideal for catching a Pokemon, as you increase the catch rate as the opponent's HP drops, and further increase it by making the opponent sleep.

The Hatcher - TALONFLAME and VOLCARONA

Ability: Flame Body

Attacks:

- 1) Fly

In ORAS, Fly when breeding is not as important as in X and Y, due to the Judge being in the same location as the Day Care, and having an endless cycle loop in that place.

However in X and Y, getting to and from Camphrier Town and Kloude City (maybe Lumiose City depending on where you buy eggs) is a task that is required for IV checking. This is most easily done by flying. The Flame Body ability doubles the hatching time of eggs in your party, so having a Pokemon with both Fly and this ability is very useful. Whether you pick Talonflame or Volcarona is down to your personal preferences.

The Explorer - SHARPEDO

Attacks:

- 1) Surf
- 2) Waterfall
- 3) Strength
- 4) Rock Smash
- 5) Dive
- 6) Secret Power

In ORAS, Sharpedo is able to travel faster than other Pokemon while surfing. This is great when exploring and completing the later tasks in the game due to the excess of water on the east side of Hoenn. Any 4 of the above attacks are ideal on Sharpedo since you may reach areas to build a Super Secret Base when coming up from Dive, and Waterfall can be used for areas where Dive is not necessarily needed, although you'll only find yourself needing Waterfall multiple times in one place in the event of Bagon. The same goes for Strength, as it isn't necessary for much in the post-game, and can be replaced with Rock Smash for use on Nitrate Spots to grab Fossils, if you want to take Sharpedo with you.

The Money Earner - SMEARGLE

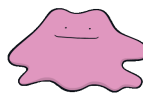

Held Item: Amulet Coin or Luck Incense

Attacks:

- 1) Happy Hour
- 2) Pay Day

You may wonder what the move Happy Hour is. It's an event-exclusive attack (originally from a Japanese inky event) that people have Sketched onto Smeargles and traded away. It doubles the prize money earned from a battle, and stacks with your Amulet Coin or Luck Incense, totaling 4 times your usual money output.

Pay Day gives you 5x the user's level in money given at the end of a battle, so that's 500 a time on a Level 100 Smeargle. This is doubled by Luck Incense or Amulet Coin, as well as Happy Hour, netting 2000 per Pay Day used. Technician can be used as an ability on Smeargle to increase the damage of Pay Day but it isn't necessary. It's recommended to use other Pokemon to do the actual battling in XY or ORAS.

The Breeder - DITTO

Items: Destiny Knot, Everstone or Power Item(s)

If you intend on breeding Pokemon, or going for a shiny, and don't have a Ditto, stop. Go get a Ditto. Several people online have div' perfect Dittos (with perfect stats) that are ideal for breeding while holding the Destiny Knot.

Destiny Knot passes 5 random IVs from both parents (so 5 picks from 12 stats), so the chance of getting perfect stats from a perfect Ditto being a parent aren't low.

The Power Items (obtainable from the Battle Maison or Pokemon Global Link) pass the IV from the holder of the stat it promotes, guaranteeing (so if you have max Attack IV on a Pokemon you can give it the corresponding Power Item and breed for perfect Attack every time).

The Everstone passes the holder's Nature on to any Egg it is a parent of.

Once you've transferred whatever Egg Moves you want on your Pokemon to an offspring, if it's not your ideal baby, shove it in the Day Care with Ditto, and let them throw eggs at you like crazy.

In general, Pokemon's capture-oriented gameplay is simple. When a wild Pokemon is encountered, it may be battled. At any time during the battle, the player.
